

GOING PLACES This week's movers

The Restaurant Property Advisors Society has appointed Simon Kelly, head of leisure and retail agency at Hargreaves Newberry Gyngell, as its chairman.

Crofton has appointed Ian Marriott from Peter Brett Associates as associate director in its Kent office.

Norton Rose has promoted Charlotte Bijlani to partner and head of the real estate dispute-resolution team in London.

Chesterton Humberts has appointed Nick Underhill to head its residential development department and expand the brand internationally, particularly through Asia. Stephanie Patterson joins from Savills in Dublin as international sales consultant.

Max James has joined Quintain to work on its biggest development, Wembley City. James will leave Lowndes Partners, a real estate investment bank that he founded in 2006 and where he is chief executive, to support Quintain's founder and chief executive Adrian Wyatt. He will take on day-to-day responsibility for "delivering a number of milestones for the project, including overseeing the London Designer Outlet and the next phase of development on the "North West lands". He will also be seeking to secure additional third-party investment and finance for the company's urban regeneration activities and will be working with Quintain Fund Management to devise solutions for real estate lenders and borrowers to restructure and recapitalise assets.

D&G Asset Management has appointed Jonathan Davis, author, journalist and investment professional, to the investment board of its Prime London Capital Fund.

Salmon Property has hired former Yell chief financial officer John Davis as a consultant.

Eddie Costello has joined Country and Metropolitan Homes, part of the Gladedale Group, as construction director.

John Sigler has left Arcadia Group, where he was the estates surveyor for London and the south east, to join CB Richard Ellis Malaysia as a vice-president, specialising in retail consultancy.

GE Capital Real Estate Europe has appointed Lennart Sten, a 13-year veteran of GE Capital, as president. He will report to Mark Begor, president and CEO of GE Capital Real Estate, and will be based in Paris.

Savills has hired Brad Lyons (right) from Capital Trust and Steven Vazquez from Aberdeen Realty Holdings as vice-presidents. Lyons will be involved in arranging debt financing, including acquisition and construction financing for Savills' New York-based real estate investment banking firm. Vazquez will focus on hotel investment sales, financings, and note sales.

Lambert Smith Hampton has recruited Sean Prigmore, who was an equity partner at Douglas Stevens & Co for 15 years, as a director in its retail team. His arrival follows the recent appointment of Mark Painter, who joined from DTZ last month. The firm has also expanded its valuation division with the appointment of Richard Jones from Colliers International as a director, to focus on healthcare agency work.

Barton Willmore has appointed Daniel Usher from Tunbridge Wells Borough Council as a senior planner and researcher in Ebbsfleet and Richard Quelch as senior planner in London. Associate Jonathan Porter has transferred from London to Bristol.

King Sturge has made three appointments in Prague: Markéta Hodaňová from T Development as head of asset and property management, Stuart Jordan from Cushman & Wakefield as head of valuation and Michaela Mácová from Sodexo as business development coordinator.

Irwin Mitchell has recruited Sue Wilson from Lawrence Graham as a property litigation consultant.

Daniel Watney has appointed Charles Mills and John Richards Mills from Knight Frank as partner in charge and associate partner respectively in its new planning advisory team.

Malcolm Hollis has appointed Michael Beatty from Sheffield Hallam University as a graduate building surveyor in its Manchester office.

Indigo Planning has hired retail sector specialist Stephen Rose as an associate, based in London.

Landmark has appointed Carel Venter from Pensar as its head of IT.

Peter Bache has set up BSV Associates in Birmingham. Joined by Adrian Willet and David Ross, the business will focus on valuation, agency, auction business support and professional services of property, plant and machinery and business assets.

O Twelve Estates has hired Mark Donnor, managing principal of Westbrook, and Ben Warner, managing director of Jersey-based Europlan Group, as non-executive directors.

Scotts Property has recruited Ed Chisholm from Colliers International as a surveyor in its Grimsby office, covering north Lincolnshire.

Capita Symonds has appointed Tim Laurence, former chief executive of Defence Estates and the husband of Princess Anne, to its board as a non-executive director.

SGP Property & Facilities Management has appointed Rupert Lowe to head a new office in the north-west, initially operating from Preston Brook.

Jeanne van Nunen has joined Mayfield Asset and Property Management's Eindhoven office as a portfolio administrator.

VTUK has hired Sarah Leah as regional account manager. Samuel Thompson joins the property solutions provider from the Zenos Academy in Oxford as apprentice support technician, and Juliette Wallis is appointed from Dataplex as office manager.

Jones Lang LaSalle Hotels has appointed George Nicholas from CB Richard Ellis as executive vice-president in its capital markets team for the UK and northern Europe.

Please send all press releases to the professional editor at Property Week, Ludgate House, 245 Blackfriars Road, London SE1 9UY or email people@propertyweek.com